JULY:

Go to camp with SACWN, just like you did (or didn't) when you were a kid. But, this camp is different. First, it's a relaxing weekend with like-minded, friendly women who are looking forward to spending quality time with friends, both new and familiar.

The weekend is filled with activities or free time, whichever you choose. Register now for the:

5TH ANNUAL SACRAMENTO
WOMEN'S GATHERING
JULY 18-20, 1997

From the Steering Committee

Special thanks to SACWNite Joy Fisher for her two part article on the Hawaiian Wedding Project (see part two beginning on page 5.) In April, Joy and her partner Joyce Austin, presented a Salon about the project and how to plan a wedding. It was just in the middle of the time that the compromise legislation was being developed in Hawaii and we felt like we had the scoop on the information. SACWN on the cutting edge again, thanks to Joy and Joyce.

We have two great events planned for you in June and July. The Starlite Serenade will be a wonderful concert and dance under the stars. (Actually, it is under a tent, which has peep holes to the stars, but just step outside and the stars will thrill you.) Everything about this dance will be different. We are trying a new venue at CAL EXPO which should be really fun. It's private, secluded and very romantic in a rustic sort of way. And the band is a really hot group from the Bay Area called the Nena Cameron Ensemble. These woman have a good time playing together and it shows. They perform all types of music and will be very open to your suggestions for your favorite dance beat. The tented area we are using at CAL EXPO will have a dance area, a "sit down at tables" area and a sort of getting away area to listen, talk with friends and enjoy the evening. So, whether you are a dancer or a listener and watcher, you'll be sure to enjoy the Nena Cameron Ensemble.

Then in July, we proudly present the Fifth Annual Sacramento Women's Gathering. This event is also different than other events produced by SACWN. We go to a private campground for the weekend (from Friday about 4 p.m. or as soon as you can get there, until Sunday noon.) Its a weekend to meet people, develop friendships, and kick back. Or you can participate in the workshops, the dance, and all the happenings and have a busy but great time. Do join us for a weekend you'll never forget!

We'd like to bring back the Successful SACWNite column in August (remember this is a two month issue) so we need volunteers to be interviewed. (If we don't soon get volunteers, we will begin randomly calling the SACWN membership list!) It's a really fun thing to do, easy and very affirming. We use the term successful because we know you all are (plus we really like alliteration!) We know that each of us does the very best we can in our lives, and that is success! You are successful. Surviving, allowing yourself to experience love and happiness, that's the meaning of success. So call, you know it's your turn to be interviewed.

Celebrate Gay Pride month.
We have so much to be proud of!

SACWN EVENTS

SATURDAY, JUNE 7, 1997 STARLITE SERENADE DANCE CAL EXPO

SACWN has a very special treat for you on Saturday, June 7. Welcome summer and celebrate gay pride month with a dance under the stars at CAL EXPO. We'll be using the large tented area on the north side of the Exposition buildings. Open air, yet sheltered from the cold, you will feel like you are a thousand miles away.

Entertaining us will be the Nena Cameron Ensemble from the Bay Area. Composed mostly of lesbians, they feature sounds from many cultures. The musicians are:

Nena Cameron on piano and keyboards was influenced by the piano style of Gene Harris. She contributes a soulful and bluesy flair to the Ensemble's repertoire.

Julianne George on bass, is a music educator and has played in the Bay Area for 16 years. Julianne brings a strong and interactive interpretation to her basslines which add a unique flavor to the Ensemble's rhythm section.

Katrine Spang-Hanssen on Drums is a native of Denmark. She has performed throughout the United States for eight years and brings the musical influences of Terri Lynn Carrington, Dennis Chambers and Vinnie Coliattu to the group.

Yolanda Bocanegra on vocals and percussion adds vocal interpretations and the artful sounds of congas and hand percussion instruments which adds the beat to everything from bossa nova to Motown classics.

Tammy Levi, on the trumpet and fluegelhorn is also a music educator and a performer. Tammy has played throughout Europe, Asia, Canada, Australia and the United States and brings the influences of Dexter Gordon and J. J. Johnson to the Ensembles diverse mix.

Georgianna Krieger, on the sax and flute is formal music education and has been playing saxophone and flute for 18 years. She brings the influences from Gerry Mulligan and the West Coast Cool Jazz sounds to the Ensemble.

Come to dance, come to listen, meet old friends and meet new ones, too. There will be special tables for single women and smokers will be asked to smoke outside the tent. It will be an outstanding, sophisticated evening of musical delights and soulful dance music. Just try and keep your toes from tapping!

JULY 18 -20 THE FIFTH ANNUAL SACRAMENTO WOMEN'S GATHERING AT CAMP AUGUSTA

We rent the campground for the weekend and celebrate being together. It's a little bit like going to camp when you were a kid, and a little bit like going to a family reunion with cousins that you really like.

There will be workshops, a dance, and lots of free time. Canoeing, hiking and swimming at the base of a forty foot waterfall with 60 other lesbians is a joy that can't be found elsewhere! There are even hot, private showers! Is this the definition of heaven?

UNDERSTANDING THE HAWAII MARRIAGE CASE

PART TWO, SEE MAY ISSUE OF SACWN FOR PART ONE

As it became more and more clear that Hawaii's courts were prepared to declare that it was an unconstitutional deprivation of equal protection of the laws to prohibit gay and lesbian couples from marrying, opponents of same-gender marriage sought a remedy in the Hawaii State Legislature.

A bill was introduced which would amend the state Constitution to preserve the custom of allowing marriage only between one man and one woman. By amending the state Constitution, opponents of same-gender marriage hoped to nullify the eventual decision in the Baehr v. Miike case if, as is expected, it is favorable to gay people.

However, Hawaii, as a state is comprised of a rainbow-blend of many races, and has a history of tolerance not found in other states. As a result, even conservative members of the Legislature agreed that couples legally barred from marriage should be afforded "substantially similar" rights as married couples.

In a report issued in 1995, the State of Hawaii Commission on Sexual Orientation and the Law had identified more than 400 rights and benefits acquired by couples in Hawaii as a result of entering into marriage. In order to extend these rights to same-gender couples, whom the Legislature proposed to prohibit from marrying, a second bill was introduced which would confer some of the rights on "reciprocal beneficiaries."

In what may be seen as an attempt to once more render gay and lesbian relationships invisible, however, the definition of "reciprocal beneficiaries" was broadened at the suggestion of conservative legislators to include any two people who were forbidden by the law to marry. So, for example, an uncle and a niece may be reciprocal beneficiaries, as well as any two unmarried men or unmarried women, whether or not they are in a committed gay or lesbian relationship.

The language of both the proposed constitutional amendment and the reciprocal beneficiaries bill was different in the versions passed by the Hawaii House of Representatives and by the Hawaii Senate, so the bills were sent to a Conference Committee made up of representatives from both the house and the Senate in order that a compromise could be reached that would be acceptable to a majority of the legislators in both houses.

The conference committee members were lobbied heavily by both gay men and lesbians and by the religious right. Gay men and lesbians held round-the-clock candlelight vigils at the capitol and sponsored a "Family Rights" weekend which was attended by people from all over the United States.

The more liberal senators would not agree to the proposed constitutional amendment unless the language of their reciprocal beneficiaries bill, which contained many more benefits than that of the conservative legislators in the House, was accepted.

Gay men and lesbians were then treated to the unusual sight of Pat Robertson's own "700 Club" attorney pleading with the House negotiators to agree to an expanded package of benefits for reciprocal beneficiaries--give them anything it takes, was their message, as long as marriage itself is "saved" for heterosexuals!

In the end, much to the bitter disappointment of gay men and lesbians who had fought long and hard for true equality (the right to marry itself), agreement was reached. On April 18, 1997, the conferees adopted compromise language on both bills, which were then passed by both houses on April 29th, the very last day of the legislative session.

H.B. 117, the proposed constitutional amendment, authorizes the following language to be put to a vote of the people:

"Shall the Constitution of the State of Hawaii be amended to specify that the legislature shall have the power to reserve marriage to opposite sex couples?"

If more than 50 percent of the voters vote "yes", the amendment will pass. Polls have suggested that at least 51 percent of the people currently favor amending the Constitution in this way, while as many as 70 percent of the people are generally opposed to same-gender marriage now.

The proposed amendment will appear on the November 1998 ballot. If it passes, the Legislature will be able to pass a law restricting marriage to opposite-sex couples in the next legislative session, which would take place in the spring of 1999.

H.B. 118, the reciprocal beneficiaries bill, by contrast, will go into effect almost immediately, on July 1, 1997--IF it is signed by the

For the fifth year, SACWN has rented Camp Augusta for your weekend enjoyment. The campground includes a lake for swimming and canoeing. Each group of four cabins has a shower house with shower cubicles and hot water. Five meals will be prepared and served. Utensils will be provided. Each person is asked to take a shift in the kitchen.

Workshops are in the planning stage. Confirmed so far is another incredible hula workshop with Maka and Diana Sharpe facilitating a workshop called Embracing and Growing with Change. There will be a campfire and entertainment on Friday night and a dance on Saturday night.

The gathering begins on Friday at 4:00 p.m. when we can arrive on the land. The opening circle will be held at 6:30 p.m. followed by dinner and entertainment. Enjoy the workshops on Saturday and Sunday, swim, canoe, and play volleyball. Take time to be alone or join in with others.

Special thanks to Maka for her logo design for the Gathering. And thanks to the other artists that submitted logo artwork.

A T-shirt featuring the logo will be available for sale at the Gathering. To keep costs to a minimum, we ask that you order the T-shirt when you register. Payment will be made on delivery at the Gathering.

The closing circle will be held at noon on Sunday. Here are a few of the comments at one of the closing circles:

"The dynamics were great, people reached out and made friends.

There was freedom to be me!

I liked not waiting for bathroom space.

Diversity was an important part for me.

Compassion was alive here.

The setting is so great, such women energy.

Hawaii's Governor, Ben Cayetano. The liberal senators say the governor has agreed to sign the bill, but he has 45 working days from the end of the session (April 29) to take action, and so far he has not taken any action (except, ironically, to get married himself, while gay people everywhere watch and wait).

H.B. 118 is a very long bill, 95 pages in all. It has been reported that it confers upon reciprocal beneficiaries between 55 and 60 of the 400 rights and benefits linked to marriage. So far, no thorough analysis has been done of its content, but listed below are some of the more important rights and benefits it will provide:

(1) Health related benefits, including hospital visitation; private and public employee prepaid medical insurance benefits for the reciprocal beneficiaries of employees (private employers may pass along costs of the extra coverage to employees electing the coverage; the public employer health benefits will be provided for two years, after which an assessment of the cost to the governments of providing the benefits will be done); mental health commitment approvals and notifications; family illness and funeral leave; auto insurance coverage for reciprocal beneficiaries as family members.

(2) Legal standing to bring suit in cases of the wrongful death of a reciprocal beneficiary; domestic violence family status; victims rights benefits for reciprocal beneficiaries.

(3) Survivorship rights, including inheritance rights when a reciprocal beneficiary dies without a will; workers compensation survivorship benefits; and state employee retirement beneficiary benefits.

(4) Benefits and obligations related to jointly held property, most importantly, the ability to hold title to a home in tenancy-by-the-entirety (which makes it possible for the surviving reciprocal beneficiary to assume sole title to the property without paying taxes which would otherwise accrue).

Unlike same-gender marriage, which would apply to both Hawaii residents and non-residents, reciprocal beneficiary status will only be available to Hawaii residents (although without a requirement that they be residents for any period of time before becoming entitled to the benefit). This is prompting some gay men and lesbians to reassess their travel plans. One gay activist from Dallas, Texas, attracted notice from the mainstream press when he wrote that he would change his plane ticket "to a one-way ticket if they pass a partnership benefits package."

In the meantime, Baehr v. Miilke continues its long, tortuous path through the courts. Eleven states, including California, have filed "friend of Court" briefs arguing against giving gay men and lesbians the right to marry (that's OUR tax dollars at work, folks!), and the State of Hawaii has filed its opening brief (abandoning entirely its argument at the trial court level that the law restricting marriage to one man and one woman is justified in order to protect children). All briefing is supposed to be completed by August, and a date for oral argument will be set after that.

The State of Hawaii has also filed a motion with the Supreme Court asking it to withhold its decision in the case until after the election in November 1998. The court has not ruled on the motion as yet.

In the worst-case scenario of this ongoing saga, this is what will happen:

(1) The governor of Hawaii will fail to sign H.B. 118, and we will not get reciprocal beneficiary status;

(2) The Supreme Court will agree to withhold its decision in the Baehr case until after the November 1998 election to give the people an opportunity to change the Hawaii Constitution, thus making any decision in the Baehr case moot (no longer having any proactive effect on the law as it exists);

(3) In the November 1998 election, the people of Hawaii will vote to give the Legislature the authority to restrict marriage to members of the opposite sex, and, in the 1999 Legislative session, the Legislature will do just that.

If all this happens, we will have nothing, and will have to start all over, hoping to overturn the Hawaii constitutional amendment by taking a new case all the way to the United States Supreme Court arguing that Hawaii's constitutional amendment violates the equal protection clause of the United States Constitution. This would take many years, and we could lose, setting back the cause for same-gender marriage all over the country.

In the best-case scenario, this is what will happen:

(1) The governor of Hawaii will sign H.B. 118, as he agreed to do, and gay and lesbian residents of Hawaii will be able to register as reciprocal beneficiaries beginning on July 1 of this year--less than a month from now!

(2) The Hawaii Supreme court will refuse to delay its ruling until after the November 1998 election, and will instead issue a favorable ruling late this year or early in 1998, ordering the state to allow same-gender marriage. This would create a "window of opportunity", after the court ruling and before the election, when gay men and lesbians from all over the United States could go

You Heard About It Here First... Remember last month when we whispered that something fantastic was going to be happening over Labor Day weekend? Well, did you check out page 7? Robin Tyler of Yosemite Festival fame is producing the West Coast Women's Beach Fest in Monterey from August 29 to September 1, 1997. Held at the Doubletree Hotel, the event will have something for everyone. Friday will feature the Tropical Paradise Ball. Daytime festivities include beach parties, workshops, twelve step activities, dance lessons (ballroom and country) and roller blading, kayak and bike rentals, scuba diving, fishing charters and more. Saturday night will be celebrated with a Lesbian Luau and banquet on the beach. The Gala Comedy Concert, followed by a dance will be the highlight of Sunday. Now turn back to page 7 and call Robin!

(3) In November 1998, the "aloha spirit" of the Hawaiian people will prevail over homophobia, fewer than 50 percent of the voters will vote for the constitutional amendment, and it will fail. Same-gender marriage will then be a permanent reality in Hawaii!

(Stay tuned for a flash message in a future SACWN newsletter letting you know whether Governor Cayetano signs H.B. 118 so you, too, can decide whether to buy a one-way ticket to Hawaii!)

The event is a fund raiser for Frontrunners Sacramento, a primarily gay and lesbian running and walking club that is raising money to send athletes to compete in the track and field events at the Gay games in Amsterdam next year.

"We promise a great time and I encourage everyone to come by to check out the pets, owners, entertainment, music and food, have fun and raise some money for Frontrunners" said Leon Fairley, Frontrunner's president-elect.
